WHEELING, SEPTEMBER 24, 1895. Hard on Hardin,

Hon. S. D. McCormick has sent the cold chills through the Democratic organization in Kentucky. A Democrat all his life, a man of character and a strong speaker, he introduced Colonel Bradley, Republican nominee for governor, in a speech in which he jumped all over General Hardin, the Democratic nominee. He declared that Hardin has "dug a grave so deep between himself and his party that no sound money Democrat who does not wear a collar can support him." For himself he could not support the Populist nominee, "so I choose the Republican nominee, who stands for sound money." Mr. McCormick predicted the election of Colonel Brad-This bolt is important as showing not only the determination of sound money Democrats to defeat Hardin but as au evidence that the old-time prejudice against the Republican party is passing away in Kentucky as it is in other southern states. It no longer means business and social estracism to act with the Republic party in the old slaves states. This is a great gain in a region where business, politics and the social side of things have been more closely related than the people of the north can understand.

The thermometer went headlong yesterday. It had heard the news from the northwest and was in a hurry to get in the swim.

The Sowers Case.

The case of John Sowers may prove very unfortunate for Spain. It only remains to learn whether the case is as Mr. Sowers represents it. If he tells the truth he has been outraged and Spain will have to make amends or stand the consequences.

Mr. Sowers is an American citizen who has a plantation in Cubs. There he was living with his family when he was arrested, kept ten days in prison and finally given twenty-four hours to get out of Cuba. He says that he had taken no part in the revolt and was not charged with so doing. He appeals to the state department to enforce his rights as an American citizen sojourning peaceably within Spanish territory. If any right has been infringed our government must demand reparation.

If Mr. Sowers tells the truth the Spanish authorities have denied to him all his rights as they are guaranteed by treaty between the two countries. Assuming the statement of facts to be correct, Spain will be glad to make apology and settlement. She will fence with delay, but in the end she will deliver.

Spain has all the trouble on her hands that she can make any show of attending to, and ours is at this time the last country with which she wants to be involved in war. That would lead to the freedom of Cuba in short order.

Any young American who desires a Chinese wife, $5,000 and a half interest in a prosperous business should apply to Sing Lee, San Jose, California, who is eager to close the deal.

Another Irish Movement, The convention of Irishmen about to assemble in Chicago is expected to get on foot a new movement in behalf of Ireland. It meets a time when the Irish party as an effective force has practically disappeared from the British parliament and when the cause itself is at a low ebb. There is no great Irish leader and no great Englishman roady to esponse the cause. There is no l'arneil and no Gladstone.

There has not been a time in twenty years when the prospect for Ireiand seemed so gloomy. Whether the cause can be galvanized into life from this wide of the ocean remains to be seen. Since there is at present no hope of accomplishing anything in parliament, what will the convention suggest? Any demonstration outside of parliament to be at all effective must represent force in some form.

But in such a contest the Irish in Ireland would be overwhelmed, for if need be the whole British army would be thrown against them. It is a discouraging problem with which the convention has to deal, and the world will look on with interest while the convention develops a plan of campaign.

Our English cousins, disgusted with Lord Dunraven's behavior, are quick to get in line for a real yacht race. Their promptness in opening up the matter means that they see nothing unsportsmanlike in the behavior of the Defend- to address a public meeting in this er or in the action of the committee, This will be something more for Dunraven to chew over. The dose will be all the more nauseous because it is administered to him at home by his own

Cheap Citizenship.

At Uniontown, Pennsylvania, a judge refused to naturalize fifty men because they knew nothing of our form of government. This judge understands his business. Of late years refusals of this kind have been numerous enough to be encouraging. If more judges will take this stand it will become the fashion of our courts to protect our citizenship from the gross outrage of being conferred on men who have no more idea of its meaning than a mule has of a work of art.

It is a known fact that there are men who offer themselves for naturalization where only appreciation of its value is that it gives them votes to sell. The sorry part of it is that citizensulp once conferred the most ignorant can use his vote to kill the vote of the most intelligent. Citizenship is bestowed too soon in this country and is altogether

Twice five years would not be too long a period of probation, and on top of that nobody should be admitted to citizenship who cannot read the constitution in English and make intelligent answers concerning our form of government. This is the least that wo should demand of caudidates for citizenship. We breed enough ignorant citizeus without importing anv.

THE governor has been a trifle slow in appointing delegates from West Virginis to the deep waterways convention, but he has appoissed a first class delegation that will do the state credit.

A Hearing For Convicts.

A year ago, while the warden of Sing Sing prison was watching the lines of marching convicts crossing the prison ward, one of them broke out of the ranks and, in spite of the efforts of one the guards, threw himself at the warden's feet.

The man said that for six years he had been trying in vain to speak to the warden. For the sake of discipline it was necessary to punish the convict, but he said som ething to the warden which set that officer to thinking and he thought out an easy way for convicts to communicate with him.

They are now supplied with paper and permitted to drop their letters in boxes so distributed as to be reached easily as they pass from their cells to their work. The men appreciate very highly this opportunity to make requests and to file grievances at headquarters, and it is thought to have s good effect on the discipline.

This privilege should be allowed in every penitentiary. Why not intro-duce the convicts' letter-box in the West Virginia peniteutiary?

RICHARD CROKER is "out of politics," but he will be in the Democratic state convention and his finger will be in the pie up to the arm-pit. It was for this that he came back from Europe at this General Scholleld's successor. Unless the President departs from the rule of practice Major General Nelson A. Miles will be appointed to succeed General Schofield at the head of the atmy. General Miles is fifty-five years of age and a model soldier.

Born on a Massachusetts farm, the war found him a clerk in a Boston store. He entered the army as a second lieut enant and left it as a major general of volunteers in 1866, being then twenty-six years of age. He had wounds enough to make him a veteran. He entered at once the regular army as a colonel, and after twenty-four years of service there he was made major general. His record on the frontier has been brilliant.

The President could pass over General Miles in filling the vacancy, but probably he will not. There is not a general officer in the army in whom the people have more confidence than in General Miles, and the public disappointment would be great if he were not to receive the merited promotion.

In the seven months since the ravolt began Spain has lost in Cuba 25,000 men, more than half of them by disease. At this rate it is a nice question of military mathematics how many men Spain will have to sacrifice before she can quell the revolt.

After the Hig Butchers,

If the attorney general of Illinois will act on the anggestion of the department of agriculture he will drag the reat beef packers into court and see what can be done with them under the law of his state. It is explained that this course is recommended because the administration has no confidence in the anti-trust law of Congress. Cartainly the people had no confidence in the desire of Attorney General Olney to put that law to the test. Nor has his his successor shown any feverish anxiety to go shead on that line.

SENATOR BRICK says that the greatest progress in this country will be in a belt running two hundred miles north and south of New York and extending to the Missouri river, "the best part of the United States." This locates West Virginia right in the swim. If the country goes shead West Virginia will go ahead with it.

The Way To Treat Them,

Charles Wilfred Mowbray, an English anarchist, came to this country to teach the devilish doctrines of his ism. He has been taught something by the Chicago police, who broke him off and corked him up in the midst of a red harangue. This is just the right way to treat fellows of Charles Wifred's Ridney. As often as they preach amerchy, which means the sheenes of government, they have no right of free speech under any government.

Not a man of them should be allowed

AN AMERICAN LOURDES.

Old-Fashioned Shrine on a Cone-Shaped Hill in Eastern Wisconsin-It Has 15,000

Holy Hill, in the diminutive town of Wis., is regarded by many Catholies of this country in much the same light as Lourdes is by the devout Catholics of southwestern Europe. Year by year the increase in the number of pilgrims grows, and this year it is esti-mated that more than 15,000 will visit the place before the season of worship closes next month. Some miraculou cures have been reported from the place in the past, though nothing mar-velous has taken place there thus far this year. The alleged miraculous properties of the hill were discovered by ac cident over thirty or forty years ago by a disgraced priest, Francole Soubiro, who, having read of Marquette's jour-neyings through the state in 1673, followed in the explorer's footsteps nearly 200 years later.

Soubiro lived on the hill for years, and was long known he the Hermit of Hely Hill. While journeying to the place from a monestery in Quebec Soubiro became partially paralyzed. Not daunted by this, he kept on, and at last reached the hill, where he found the remains of an altar erected by Marquestic. Making his home in a cave near by, he made daily ascents to the summit of the hill, where he hasted and prayed. On one occasion he spent the entire night in prayer. When he arose ontire night in prayer. When he arose from his knees in the morning he found that his paraive's was gone and that he was us strong as ever. For years he lived this way. Then at the outbreak of the civil war he disappeared and never returned.

The fame of the place had, however, become known, and pilgrimages to it began. At first a chapel was erected in 1861, on the summit of the cone-shaped will as the cone-shaped hill. As the crowds of pilgrims in creased, the chapel was made larger. creased, the chapet was made larger. Finally, in 1882, a commodious church edifice was erected. The various buildings were erected with money contributed by thankful pilgrims who had been benefitted by their visit to the shrine. The cone-shaped peak of the hill can be seen for miles in all direc-tions, and upon the very summit is the chapel. So pointed was the knob of the hill that there was not sufficient level space upon it for the foundations of the church, and the builders found it necessary to cut away the earth. As it is, there is a tract of level ground about the church barely wide enough to form a walk. With such a location to form a walk. With such a location the church is a prominent feature of the landscape, and the gilded surface of he huge cross upon the spire reflects the rays of the sun as does the holio-The altar is the only place of graph. The attar is the only place of its kind upon the continent, and from the time of its dedication by Father Marquette, over 200 years ago, it has re-mained devoted to the same purposes. No parochial duties were ever per-formed in it; never has there been a marriage there, and never a inneral. Erin is the highest land in Eastern Wisconsin. Wisconsin. Though only forty unles from Milwaukee, it is one of the most from Milwaukee, it is one of the most primitive townshipp in the state. It is occupied solely by farmers, and claims neither factory, village nor hamlet. The government census shows that in the twenty years, from 1870 to 1890 the population of the township increased just thirty-five. Many of the residents still occupy the log houses their fathers built when they secured the land from the government, while many of the newer houses are built of roughly hown lozs. Nearly all the residents of the place are Roman Catholics. The first settlers were emigrants from Ireland, who gave the name of their island birthplace to the township, which the United States gave them.
